WAR of 1812.

Congress has just passed a law giving a Pension of $8 per month to all Soldiers of the War of 1812 who served 14 days or were in battle—and the same pension to the widows of all such soldiers.

This entitles all to a pension who have received Land Warrants.

All desiring the pension can obtain it, by applying to me in person at my office, or by letter.

I have all the old Rolls, on which is borne the names of all soldiers of the War of 1812, with the place and length of service and date of discharge, and all facts, and I can give full and exact information in every case.

Also a record of most of the Land Warrants granted to these soldiers.

No person, east of Portland, has these rolls, except myself and A. J. Chapman, Esq., of Bangor, he has equal facilities for obtaining these pensions. He was formerly a clerk in my office.

ECONOMY WITHOUT SACRIFICE.

[From the N. Y. Tribune]

Much sound philosophy there was in the observation of the late Deacon Terry, who, being asked "Where's the best place to "have a ball?" answered promptly, "On "another man's nose." The wisdom of this world has settled it pretty definitely that the best place to have anything disagreeable, or to start a subscription paper, paper, or begin a reform, or make any sort of sacrifice, is "not here, but with some other man." It is so much easier and more comfortable to be charitable with other people's money and order the economies for other people's houses. We have the example of kins for it. It is related that Henry II., riding with his chancellor, Becket, in the streets of London, upon one occasion had his sympathies touched by the spectacle of a beggar shivering with the cold. Calling Becket's attention to the poor fellow, he asked if it would not be praiseworthy to give him a coat. Becket replied that it certainly would, and added that it was very creditable to His Majesty to be thinking of such charitable actions. Whereupon the king seized upon the Chancellor's coat, which was of scarlet lined with ermine, and handed it over to the beggar, to the latter's great astonishment and Becket's greater disgust. Henry was full of generous impulses. So was Robin Hood. And so were all the old potentates and pirates who used to be generous and open-hearted toward one set of men with the plunder they seized from another. They had a way, too, the gay fellows who hanged at sea back, of starting measures of retrenchment anywhere else than at home; of beginning all the economical practices which short revenues compelled at the hearth of the subject, and ending them long before the door of the palace was reached. All the same, it was economy and retrenchment and reform; and besides being cheap and easy, was an inspiring spectacle for the rest of the world to look on.

Nowadays and in republics they do these things party-wise instead of king-wise. That is to say, parties carry out politics of retrenchment and reform in the same large and grand way—at the expense of somebody else. Our Democracy are up to it just at present. At a time when the Government certainly was administered upon a scale of undue extravagance, these people said, "Just turn it over to us, and we'll show you how to cut down expenses, "save money and exercise economy." Upon this offer they were trusted with one branch of the legislative department to try their prentice hand on. That gave them supervision of the appropriations and a fine opportunity to conduct retrenchment in the cheap and easy way. They have been at it—retrenching and reforming and enforcing economy—now these three years. In their first Congress, having first intrenched themselves by turning out every Republican they could reach and installing Democrats in their places, they set out on a course of retrenchment for their opponents upon a scale so vast and sweeping that they came near bringing the whole machinery of Government to a dead standstill by stopping the supplies. Seldom has there been so gallant a charge against prodigality, wastefulness and extravagance; seldom such cutting and slashing of appropriations; such sweeping economies and radical reforms; and they did it all with wonderful discrimination. Setting behind them all the places of their own holding, they marched forward against all the rest with hackle and saw, the and pruning knife, with saw and hatchet and axe. They cut and bruised and hacked and hewed, and left nothing standing but their own salaries and those of their placemen. They economized the Army and Navy out of several months' pay and pretty nearly out of existence, and made it necessary to call an extra session of Congress to make appropriations for them; and they whittled down appropriations to such a point that millions of deficiences had to be made up at the end of the year. They boasted of having saved many millions to the Government, and showed the record for it, and the millions they saved appear in the deficiency bills of the succeeding session. It was a magnificent showing, and they did it all on as cheap a basis as the parsimonious man enjoyed religion for twenty years—it "didn't cost them more than 37½ cents, all told." They never so much as touched with tweezers the first salary or emolument or perquisite of their own. There was never such discriminating economy.

They are still at it, and on the good old-fashioned plan. Not here in New York, where they have had almost undisputed possession of power for twenty-five years, and have established a system of official salaries from three to five times higher than are paid anywhere else for the same service. Oh no; they oppose reduction of salaries here. The place to have a ball is on some other man's nose; and the place to practice economy is on some other man's salary. They are practising it in Washington, on everything they can reach, except their own salaries and the offices filled by their friends. The Tribune's Washington special of yesterday set forth some of the beauties of the Democratic policy of retrenchment in detail. The Legislative, Executive and Judicial Appropriation bill, leaving the appropriations for the expenses of the Democratic House the same as last year, cuts down almost every item for the Senate and the Departments. That this is retrenchment will not be denied. Nor can it be denied that it is retrenchment on the regular Democratic plan—cheap, easy and discriminating. And, by-and-by, when the shaving and paring are all over for this session, we shall see Democratic statesmen like Mr. Randall prancing around the country proclaiming that the party has saved more millions to the government by reducing salaries and lopping off appropriations.—And every Democrat in the land who wants to be a Doorkeeper or a Doorkeeper's deputy—several hundred thousand of them—will point to the record as proof that the Democratic party is the party of economy and retrenchment. Then whichever one of them gets the place will proceed to stuff the pay-rolls, and engage in the usual deviltries of Democratic Doorkeepers. "Let us," says the Democratic House, proceed to practice self-denial "by doubling the Doorkeeper's pay-roll, "and employing a battalion of Democratic "experts," while we cut down the salaries of the Senate and the Departments."

The extract from Senator Howe's speech printed on our first page to-day will be found worth reading, as it presents an admirable portraiture of the Northern Doughface drawn from life

THE REASON WHY.

[From the Concord Monitor.]

In the absence of any legitimate line of defence against the arraignment of Senator Howe, the thick-and-thin organs, copying the language of Boss Tweed on a memorable occasion, ask, "What are you going to do about it? Packard is out and Chamberlain is out, and their restoration is a constitutional impossibility. Shall we, then, sit supinely down and make no sign over the betrayal of Republican principles, because no immediate remedy can be applied? Suppose we had said, after the passage of the secession ordinances, South Carolina is out, Georgia is out, and why make a fuss about it? Or suppose our revolutionary fathers had been met with the assertion 'your tea is taxed and what is the use of further complaint,' and had ceased to resist tyrannical enactments in consequence, what would have been our condition to-day? Subject provinces, in all probability. Because the injury to free government is so great as not to be immediately reparable so much greater the need that the people be kept apprised of what is transpiring, so that when the times comes they may right the wrong and press forward in the work of restoral on until there is absolute equality in all parts of our country and until our flag becomes indeed the symbol of protection to the poorest of God's human creatures. Let the scourge be applied to all who betray their principles, who barter away human rights, who compromise with wrong-doers, who evade responsibilities who go after strange gods and who profess a superior virtue while indulging in practices that would shame a Jesuit or discount a Richelieu. We must exact a reckoning from all such; nor must we stay our hands because, for the present, they are part ally disabled. We must demand also a change of front of all who are going astray. We may forgive those who heed the demand in good time, but there must be no more dawdling and temporizing unless we are prepared to forfeit without a struggle all the fruits of patriotic blood and tears."

THE BROOKLYN SCANDAL REVIVED.

[From the N. Y. Times]

RUMORS OF A RECONCILIAT ON BETWEEN MR. AND MRS. TILTON—WHAT A PROMINENT MEMBER OF PLYMOUTH CHURCH SAYS—EX-JUDGE MORRIS' OPINION OF TILTON.

At stated intervals, ever since the close of the Tilton-Beecher suit in the Brooklyn City Court, rumors have been set afloat, both in this city and Brooklyn, to the effect that a reconciliation had been or was about to be effected between Theodore Tilton and his wife, Elizabeth; that negotiations were in progress whereby they were to live together again as man and wife and that Mrs. Tilton was preparing a full confession of criminal intimacy with Mr. Beecher. Mr. Tilton has on all these occasions been represented as anxious for the re-establishment of his shattered home and the reuniting of his scattered family. Whenever an attempt has been made to get at the "bottom facts" of these rumors, however, they have always been met with a full and explicit denial on the part of the friends of Mr. Beecher, while all were earnestly ignored by Mr. Tilton. The rumors have taken a more definite and tangible shape recently, and it is believed by many that Mr. and Mrs. Tilton are about to assume intimate relations with each other. A Times reporter last evening called upon a prominent member of Plymouth Church, and a warm friend of Mr. Beecher, in regard to the rumors which have been prevalent in Brooklyn for the past few days. He said that he had no direct information from the parties themselves, but whatever he did know he had obtained from what he considered trustworthy authority, and he had no doubt of its correctness. The purport of what the gentleman had to say was that Tilton had long been try ng to effect a reconciliation with his wife, and that all the children were anxious that such a result should be accomplished. In response to this end he has had repeated interviews with her; that at first she refused to have anything to do with him on any terms whatever, but that she finally consented to live with him again if he would make a full and unequivocal retraction of every thing he had ever alleged against her either directly or indirectly. This Mr. Tilton refused to do, but offered to live together again quietly and say nothing about any confession or retraction on either side. The gentleman had it from pretty good authority, he said, that Tilton had also had a long interview with Mr. Beecher, which resulted in a new understanding—and that as a result of that interview Mrs Tilton was sent for several days afterward; and that the result was still at definite arrangements had been made whereby they were soon to be reunited as man and wife and go to Europe together. In regard to that portion of the rumor relative to a confession from Mrs. Tilton implicating Mr. Beecher, the gentleman said that that present Mrs. Tilton had no confession to make. It was his opinion, however, that Tilton's only object was to get possession of his wife, for the purpose of using her hereafter as a weapon with which to crush Beecher; that he did not care a fig for her, only so far as he could use her in the future, for that purpose; and that no matter what he might say now, that was undoubtedly his ultimate object. What the result would be, it was impossible at present to predict. He said, he thought Mr. Beecher knew all about the contemplated movement, and that he did not seem to be particulary worried about it. In conclusion, the gentleman referred to the influence which Mr. Tilton exercised over his wife more than once, at the Walnut Street Theatre, Philadelphia he was playing Virginius, Miss F., who was then the popular leading actress of the theatre, played Virginia, and most charmingly she did it; she was happy at acting with the great Englishman, and tried her best power and graces. But as ass all through the first scene with Virginius poor Virginia was made ill at ease, because of Virginius indulging in a sudden groan or grunt during most of her speeches, as, dun'ah oh me! and so he continued until the scene with her was over. Of course, the young lady was annoyed and alarmed at what she could not comprehend the cause of, so the determined to ask her father what ninety-nine dollars-to-go his dressing-room door she knocked. "Who's that?" answered the Roman Father. Miss F. replied: "Can I speak with you a moment, sir?" "Yes, what is it?" "What was wrong in the scene with you that made you so cross and caused you to grunt so all the time? What have I done?" "What done, Miss? God Bless me! you curled your hair. I never heard of such a thing! Outrageous, dreadful, ah! I could with difficulty go on, ah!"

THE PITT OF IT.

[From The Rochester Democrat and Chronicle, Republican.]

The anticipated speech of Senator Howe, upon the Administration, will attract national attention, both from the character of its author and the severity of his indictment. The review of the Southern policy is especially noteworthy. Senator Howe has heretofore been credited with judicial fairness, and it is to be regretted that he finds so much in the conduct of the Administration to condemn; and the pity is that so much of what he says is true.

The Springfield organ of the President says:

Singular that Howe didn't have anything to say about the President's appointment, which was recently confirmed, of George C. Tanner as Consul at Verviers. Tanner was a gallant soldier in the cavalry service of the Confederacy, and one of Gen. Wade Hampton's trusted scouts. "Can such things be and overcome us like a summer's cloud?"

We should say, they can, so long as Northern donkeys boast of the promotion of rebel guerillas to federal honors.—Boston Traveller

The Boston Journal thinks it worth while to quote:

The Richmond (Va.) Despatch of Tuesday says: "If President Hayes deserves not the applause of his countrymen there never lived a man who did."

We believe the same Richmond paper expressed great admiration for Gen. McClellan when he was running against President Lincoln in 1864 on a "peace at any price" platform.

The Boston Journal remarks that: "For the first time in the history of this country Boston is represented in the National Congress by two members of the House of foreign birth. Mr. Dean was born in England, and Mr. Morse in Germany. Mr. Dean is a native of Gilthorpe, Eng., and will be fifty-four years old on the 22th of August next. Mr. Leopold Morse was born at Wachenheim, Bavaria, Aug. 16th, 1831. Is the native stock running out?

After some discussion the Committee struck out the enacting clause of the bill, and on rising that action was ratified by the House, which at 3.35 adjourned till Monday.

WASHINGTON

The Currency Balance.

WASHINGTON, March 29. Although nothing official can be obtained upon the subject the indications are that the currency balance as it will be shown in the public debt statement, Monday will be less than a million of dollars. The coin balance will probably be from 135 to 140 millions. The amount of fractional currency issued to National Banks for March is 341,000 legal tender notes destroyed 80 per cent of the same, 1876,312.

Committee Work.

The report has been submitted to the House Committee on Banking by the sub-committee consisting of Chittenden and Ewing, which recently visited New York. The following are the substantial points of the report. The Bankers in New York were of the opinion that resumption at the earliest practicable moment was not only consistent with the public welfare, but was of great importance to the best prosperity of the country. Also that resumption the first of January, 1879, might be made practicable and safe if adequate measures should be adopted. About all agreed that the plans of the Secretary of the Treasury are inadequate and that if he should make the attempt to resume on the first of January, such circumstances as were likely to exist at that time the attempt would probably fail. The unnecessary duration of silver and also seriously interfered with the probabilities of resumption at the time fixed.

The House Committee on Judiciary held a meeting to-day on the subject of distributing the remaining part of the General Appropriation bill, but no action was had. It was claimed there should be three Commissioners to fix the rates, the first set to be named in the bill. The details of the bill will be worked out by a sub-committee consisting of Rice, Chalmers and Hewitt. The bill will be a combination of Chalmers' and Rice's bills.

NEW YORK STATE

Another Jessie Pomeroy.

New York, March 29. Wm. Dillard, a boy of the Jesse Pomeroy stamp, dug a grave on his father's farm in Caroline County, Tuesday, and called a negro boy named Jones and pushed the latter into it. The Jones' attempted to get out, Dillard struck him with an axe nearly severing his head-piece, leaving him for dead. Dillard then led the boy to the grave and attempted the murder by an uncontrollable impulse. Jones may live, but it is doubtful. The Dillard boy is an idiot. He is of good family.

Much Trouble.

ALBANY, March 29. In the Assembly to-day, after a long debate by Mr. Brooks, the Moffat Punch liquor tax resolution was adopted.

NEW YORK CITY.

Gold and Silver Statements.

NEW YORK, March 29. It is now stated that a million and a half of gold will be taken to Europe by to-morrow's steamers. It is also stated that the Treasury bought a million and a half of silver bullion in London yesterday. It is stated that some prominent Bankers held a supplemental meeting with Congressman Ewing, when a letter was here last week during which they stated to him that Secretary Sherman would be unable to resume specie payments of 1879 because the Banks would make their specie deposits with the Treasury a special deposit which could not then be available for governmental uses, and the Banks throughout the country would convert all their legal tenders into gold for specie deposit. The Banks would pay these deposits and note holders in the cheapest legal tender after resumption. The demand for gold would thus come on the Treasury, which under such circumstances could not hold out 24 hours. Even if the Treasury shot to at first pay out silver the Banks would absorb that in a very short time then take all the Government gold and then again return the silver the Banks using their reserves for the purpose.

In twenty minutes his body was found hanging by the neck in a barn, where his horses were quartered. Buttin, who is a respected citizen, cannot recover. Burns is a bad man. The parties had some dispute about fence-line, which is the only assignable cause for the deed.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 29. Adolph Sutro has brought a suit in the Circuit Court of Carson city for the possession of the Bonanza mining claims, claiming that the ground now being worked by the Bonanza companies belongs to the Sutro tunnel by reason of said tunnel's grant by Congress allowing the Sutro company 2000 feet of ground on each side of the tunnel not previously located, under the mining laws. Sutro claims that the ground at present worked by the Bonanza company was not included in their original location and per consequence is the property of the tunnel company.

Gen. Ignatieff's Mission to Vienna.

The Excitement in England.

LONDON, March 29—P. M. It is reported that the Russian army about Constantinople is being reinforced. There is great excitement in this city and throughout the Dominion generally over the prospect of war with Russia, and the course pursued by the Government is generally applauded.

The Congress Correspondence.

Sir Stafford Northcote in replying to a question asked by Lord Hartington in the House of Commons this forenoon, said the distribution of the Congress correspondence was delayed owing to the assent of the powers to its publication not having yet been received. He hoped it would be in the hands of members to-morrow. The whole importance thereof is Russia's reply which was received yesterday. He also said he hoped the Queen's message regarding the calling out of the reserves would be communicated Monday, and that it would be discussed on the Monday following. Since this is the first step between it is desirable to ascertain the most correct mode of proceeding.

A False Version of Gortschakoff's Reply.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 29. The Agence Russe says the version of Prince Gortschakoff's reply, which appeared in the Daily Telegraph, Thursday morning, is wholly inaccurate. Prince Gortschakoff has maintained strongly out for each member of the Congress absolute liberty to discuss every clause and also perfect freedom of opinion and decision.

Lord Derby's resignation has caused no surprise in official circles in St. Petersburg where it was expected.

Armistice and the San Stefano Treaty

VIENNA, March 29. It is reported that Gen. Ignatieff's first interview with Andrassy has not yielded satisfactory results to Ignatieff, who in conversation to-day said Andrassy would leave nothing standing of the late Servian treaty. It is stated that the attempt has been renewed in Vienna to find a middle course in regard to the Congress as a compromise between England and Russia.

A Paris Correspondent's Interview with Ignatieff.

PARIS, March 29. The correspondent of Le Temps at Vienna has had an interview with Ignatieff who thus not despaired of the success of the Congress. The General said England, by entering the Sea of Marmora in violation of the treaty of 1856, had placed herself in a difficult position out of which she was endeavoring to extricate herself in such a manner as would save her amour propre. She subsequently puts forward unacceptable demands, but the Russians will stay before Constantinople so long as the British fleet remains in the Sea of Marmora.

The same despatch states that Ignatieff has authorized a contradiction of the report in New York journal respecting his conversation with a correspondent of a New York journal.

The Servian Allies of Russia.

BELGRADE, March 29. In consequence of the request of the Russian headquarters the Servian Cabinet, after a council to-day, ordered thirty battalions of Servian troops to previously occupy Sophia, the Servian troops there having been ordered to join the army before Constantinople.

Hartington on the Eastern Correspondence.

LONDON, March 29. At the evening sitting of the House of Commons the Marquis of Hartington pointed out that, as on Monday the House was to receive the Royal message, which must indicate that the situation was either one in which war was imminent or at least that the crisis was one of extreme gravity, the Eastern correspondence should contain not only the communications between Russia and England, but the communications showing the opinions of the other Great Powers.

Sir Stafford Northcote states that the papers submitted would give full information as to correspondence with all the Powers. He would postpone consideration of the budget until April 8th, so as to enable the House to discuss the Royal Message April 4th.

The Government felt that the time had arrived when they should take a decided step, they also felt that in view of recent events which in a great measure had set aside the force of treaties under which Turkey had hitherto been governed it was perfectly right and proper there should be a fresh examination of the question. The government did not object to the treaty of San Stefano being taken as the basis for a new arrangement they had not attempted to stand on any question of form, but only desired a full and fair discussion. They regretted the efforts to bring it about had not been more satisfactory, but having resulted as they have the government was obliged to consider the position of the country as one of the great powers having an interest in the European settlement and was obliged to consider its peculiar interests and whether it should by means of a conference or in any other way endeavor to maintain them. He asked to be excused from entering into details as to the course the Government might feel it their duty to adopt.

Mr. Gladstone expressed the attempt of the Chancellor to vindicate the government before the production of the correspondence. He hoped the correspondence would be satisfactory explaining why England was solely responsible for the failure of the Congress.

Special—CONSTANTINOPLE, March 27, via Syra. Gen. Ignatieff has addressed a note to the Porte demanding the dismissal of the British fleet from the neighborhood of Constantinople. Safvet Pasha communicated its note to Mr. Layard, who announced in accordance to instructions of the British Government the fleet would remain as it is after the departure of the Russians from the environs of Constantinople. The Porte handed he reply to Nelidoff without comment.

The foregoing should be received cautiously, as a direct telegram from the same correspondent on the day of the latter date mentions the request by Safvet Pasha for the withdrawal of the fleet merely as a probability.

Ignatieff's Negotiations Stopped.

The Telegraph has the following from Vienna: The rumors from England have brought Ignatieff's negotiations to a standstill. Count Andrassy will not present Heston no proposal and would certainly in the event of an Anglo-Russian war insist upon concessions which Russia is now indisposed to make.

We make the following extract from the circular in question

The robbery was committed in the daytime, and was confined to those funds which were not in the safe, amounting to $9472 only. Mr. Barron sacrificed his life rather than open the cash-box of the safe.

Several parties have expressed a desire to contribute, and some have already contributed money to be expended for different purposes growing out of the horrible transaction. The family of Mr. Barron consists of his wife, one child and mother. After all liabilities are adjusted, there will be left of his estate to his family, about $10,000.

Any funds which may be forwarded in answer to this communication, we propose to appropriate to the following purposes:

1st. To defray the expenses of ferreting out the criminals.

2d. To erect a suitable monument to the memory of Mr. Barron.

3d. To be presented to Mrs. Barron, his widow, as a voluntary gift.

Parties receiving this communication, and desirous to contribute to any of the objects above specified, are requested to transmit their gifts to Charles W. Curtis, Cashier of the First National Bank of Dexter, Maine, designating, at the same time, the object to which the gift shall be applied, or leaving it to the discretion of the Committee, as the several parties may prefer, with the assurance on the part of the Committee, that the money shall be faithfully appropriated as the contributors may indicate.

HAPPY HOUR ASSOCIATION.

Meeting at the Art Rooms—A Fine Entertainment—A Pleasant Time.

The regular meeting of the Happy Hour Association was held at the Art Rooms last evening and the company was most agreeably entertained by Mr. Charles I. Collamore's Sabbath School class, consisting of the following persons: Mrs. Pote, Mrs. Stubbs, Mrs. Henry Lord, Miss Bertha Lord, Miss Florence Dakin, Miss Lillian Dakin, and Messrs C. E. Lennan, G. B. Goodale, E. H. Dakin, Walter Johnson and W. J. Bickford. The attendance was large, the Art Room and dressing room being crowded to overflowing.

The exercises opened with a piano solo entitled "Norma," which was rendered in a very artistic manner by Miss Addie Drew, and well merited the hearty applause which it received at the hands of the audience. The Penobscot Quartette then sang "When the buds of daylight fade," and in response to an encore they gave "Laugh boys, Laugh." This was followed by a select reading, "Comin Waters," by Miss Laughton, and the audience showed their appreciation of her talent by continued applause, to which she responded by reading "The Deacon's story." Mrs. W. F. Shaw then sang the waltz song, "Lilian" in her usual pleasing manner, and being recalled she gave a song entitled 'And so will I." The next select on was a trio, "Memory," fine y given by Mrs. Crowell, Mrs. Butler and Mr. Sibley. Mr. James Haynes then gave a fine rendering of "What are bedids," and responded to the flattering encore with "Where are the friends of my youth." After this came a select reading "How we caught the Mouse," by Mrs. Isaacson, which was one of the best features of the entertainment. The selection was exceedingly well read, and the audience were convulsed with laughter until the close.—On being recalled she read "How I as my boy." The last piece on the programme was a quintette, "Tyrolean Duets," by Mrs. Shaw and the Penobscot Quartette, which was very enthusiastically received and a portion repeated.

The company then went into Unity Hall where the remainder of the evening was spent in dancing, McQuoin's Orchestra furnishing music. When the company departed for their homes they were unanimous in pronouncing this one of the pleasantest affairs of the season.

AN ASTONISHING FACT.

A large proportion of the American people are ill-healed, dying from the effects of Dyspepsia, or disordered liver. The result of those diseases upon the masses of intelligent and valuable people is most alarming, making life actually a burden instead of a pleasant existence of enjoyment and usefulness as it ought to be. There is no good reason for this, if you will only throw aside prejudice and skepticism, take the advice of Druggists, and your friends, and try one bottle of Green's August Flower. Your speedy relief is certain. Millions of bottles of this medicine have been given away to try its virtues, with satisfactory results in every case. You can buy a sample bottle for 10 cents to try. Three doses will relieve the worst case. Positively sold by all Druggists on the Western Continent.

A NIGHT IN WINTER

BY ARTHUR STACY.

A stillness deep rests on the frosty air,
Thousands have ceased their wanting, painful cry;
The gloomy forests lie all brown and bare,
While stars, like jewels, dot the dark blue sky.

The snow is drifted high along the road,
And o'er the fields, chilled by the frost king's breath,
The earth lies buried 'neath as icy load,
And shows no life, but cold, as where shows death!

Though still the air, though all around is bright,
The frost blue sky, and the cold is keen,
And those who travel on the road to night
Note not the beauty of the star lit scene.

Yet beauty rests on Nature's cold, white face,
As on it death the parian face looks fair,
Sweeter, perhaps, in all with a purer grace,
Than though the carnal sun was shining there.

And now the moon low in the east doth lie,
And with its full, bright face peeps o'er the hills;
I smiles, and will it light the cold earth's ills.

Higher it rises, till the heavens glow light,
As though reflected from the scene below.
The ones shine dimmer, but the earth grows bright!
While ice gems sparkle on the clear white snow.

Hush! hark! the sound of voices reach the ear,
Loud peals of laughter from upon the air,
Glee breaks like one grand mirror flashes clear,
And boys and girls are gaily sporting there.

The moon has called them forth with her bright rays,
And smiles upon them with her face of gold;
With healthy sport the youthful faces blaze,—
What care the young although the night be cold!

Hither and thither speeds the flashing steel,
As if with magic the rapid sparks glide.
And light as birds, and oh! as graceful, too,
Would that life ever flowed in this smooth tide!

Now silver notes come floating to the ear,
Upon the cool the tinkling sleigh bells sound,
Young hearts are merry, full of life and cheer,
As with the sleigh flies o'er the snow piled ground.

Through fields, past houses, on the horses speed
Urged on by those who shout and gaily sing,
Wrapped well in furs, the cold they do not heed,
And full and loud with their echoing ring.

Disturbed by shouts, the student in his books,
Laid by poring o'er the lessons for the morrow,
From out his window on the bright scene looks,
Then, with a sigh, back to his labor turns.

The night flies on, but still at work he sits,
Reminded of the fast approaching day,
As at last the lamp in sunlight fades away.
And, leaving him in darkness, fades away.

Yet not in deepest darkness is he left,
For moonbeams enter with their talking light,
Soon of these rays the hours will be bereft,
As, in the east, day follows after night.

Again he seeks the window of his room,
Again he looks on Nature's pallid face,
Upon her features he can see no gloom,
And only placid beauty there can trace.

And yet some object makes he fiden grow pale—
Almost as rich pearl he draws his inbrow'd breath,
While into his soul a thought of fear doth steal,
Of one who found within its lifeless—death!

The brightness seems to mock as still at night
The stark form lies that now can feel no pain;
While stely bright the deathly form to-night,
As thanks, the morrow will make a bright day.

The student turns away, and seeks his rest,
To dream in sleep the troubles so wild, so keen,
The moon, its face grown pale, sinks in the west,
And morning breaks upon the winter scene.

ST. NICHOLAS.

SCRIBNER'S ILLUSTRATED MAGAZINE FOR

GIRLS AND BOYS.

The London Academy, of December 2nd, 1877, says "To ST. NICHOLAS is conducted on the best among all juvenile literature that we have yet seen. . . . It has no invention to suggest but such as in the letter-press and in the pictures this American magazine has no rival.

In ST. NICHOLAS for December, the Grand Christmas Number, was begun a charming new

Serial Story by Miss Alcott

"Under the Lilacs," illustrated by MAY HALLOCK FOOTE, to continue during the year. This same Christmas number, of which one hundred thousand copies were printed, contained the opening chapters of a "HOBSON-TOWER-CRUSOE" STORY for boys, "Tower-Mountain," by GUSTAVUS FRANKENSTEIN, also poems by LONGFELLOW and BRYANT, a portrait of Miss Alcott, half a dozen short stories, pictures, poems, etc., etc. It is the handsomest number of a children's magazine ever issued.

The NEW YORK TRIBUNE says:

"ST. NICHOLAS has a list of contributors such as no other child's magazine, or few publications of any sort, in the world can boast. It has caused the best writers in America to turn their attention to the task of giving delight and imparting culture to children. In the avalanche of unmoral literature that threatens the children, some strong, vitally wholesome, and really attractive magazine is required for them, and ST. NICHOLAS has reached a higher platform, and commands for this service wider resources in art and letters, than any of its predecessors or contemporaries."

ST. NICHOLAS FOR 1878,

Besides the Serial STORIES above announced, will have a short story by the author of The Schönberg-Cotta Family; and THREE SPLENDID SERIALS FOR BOYS, one of which "DRIFTED INTO PORT," by EDWIN HODDER, an English writer, will begin in March. "Around the world in a Yacht, Boys!" has been promised by Mr. DIMOCK, who is now on the actual tour of the world in his own yacht. There will be contributions by a daughter of the famous Peter Parley, and a Letter to Young Americans by GEORGE MACDONALD.

The "HOW" Series of instructive papers, by various authors, will tell: HOW to bind your own books; HOW they mine coal; HOW to engrave pictures; HOW to prepare for, or to be an agreeable guest; HOW to entertain company; HOW to be a carpenter; HOW to make an ice-boat; HOW to build a house; How India rubber is gathered; HOW matches are made; HOW to be a Parlor Magician; HOW money is made; HOW mackerel are caught; HOW they laid the Atlantic cable; HOW they spun in California; HOW they work in the ten-country; etc. There will also be a series of stories and sketches of Foreign Life.

TRAVEL AND ADVENTURE,

such as "Old Nicolai" (a Russian story), "A Day among the Welsh Castles," "Easter in Germany," "The Indians of the Amazon," "How Kitty was lost in a Turkish Bazar," Master Monteruma" (a Mexican story), "Hanna, the Lapp Maiden," and many others.

"Jack-in-the-Pulpit," "Young contributors' Department," "Letter-Box," "Riddle Box," and "For Very Little Folks," will be continued.

NOTICES OF THE PRESS.

The veteran Magazine, which long ago outgrew its original title of the New Monthly Magazine, has not by that change lost the popularity it won at its outset, but has added to it in many ways, and has kept fairly abreast of the times, thanks to the impress of its editorial and literary supervision and of its editors. For whatever is best and most readable in the literature of travel, discovery, and fiction, the reader of to-day turns to Harper's Magazine, just as eagerly as did the reader of a generation or a century ago, there is the same admirable variety of contents, the same freshness and suggestiveness in its editorial departments now as then.—Boston Journal.
